

Abstract

A screw-type kneading/extruding machine according to the present invention is constructed such that a screw (3) that is positioned in correspondence with a vent opening (4) formed in a cylinder (2) has a screw piece (10) with surface-renewing ability. The structure enables deaeration without involving temperature rise and quality deterioration of a raw material.